Hi Neil and Lisa,

Thank you very much for your support to Paula and me as we planned and executed a day-long conference with our Atlantic university counterparts today.

Lisa - thank you for your time today in welcoming our colleagues and moderating the panel on cybersecurity.

We had a successful day of network building and discussions around everything from crisis management, deferred maintenance, international students to how do we work better together. There is a clear need and desire for collaboration across the region and today's conference has really help reinvigorate efforts to stay in touch and coordinate where it makes sense.

[REDACTED] and we will be sharing our lessons learned with the next organizers.

Subject: Budget 2024 - Highlights

Good evening Neil and VPs,

I write with some good news from Budget 2024 today. Below is a summary of my review of the Budget documents. Universities Canada will be providing more fulsome analysis of how these investments differ from what was being lobbied for by the sector [REDACTED]. The theme of the Budget was Fairness for Every Generation and there is a backgrounder specifically on the Younger Generation (that doesn't cover the research investments).

s. 29(1) (a)

Links to the budget documents will be below. MARCOM is already working on a message to the community.

1. Research

- $1.8 billion over five years, starting in 2024-25, with $748.3 million per year ongoing to SSHRC, NSERC, and CIHR.
- Creation of an "capstone" research funding organization (the tri-councils will exist under it)
- Creation of an Advisory Council on Science and Innovation. This Council will be made up of leaders from the academic, industry, and not-for-profit sectors, and be responsible for a national science and innovation strategy to guide priority setting and increase the impact of these significant federal investments.
- Budget 2024 also proposes to provide a further $26.9 million over five years, starting in 2024-25, with $26.6 million in remaining amortization and $6.6 million ongoing, to the granting councils to establish an improved and harmonized grant management system.

2. Research Infrastructure

- $730 million in research infrastructure on already designated university campuses (ex. $399.8M for UBC TRIUMF and $176M for CANARIE) – Memorial not implicated directly

3. Grad students ("Investing in Homegrown Research Talent")

- $825 million over 5 years to increase the annual value of master's and doctoral student scholarships to $27,000 and $40,000, respectively, and post-doctoral fellowships to $70,000.
- This will also increase the number of research scholarships and fellowships provided, building to approximately 1,720 more graduate students or fellows benefiting each year.
- To make it easier for students and fellows to access support, the enhanced suite of scholarships and fellowship programs will be streamlined into one talent program.

4. Student Housing

- Removal of GST on new student residents is relaxed for universities (this measure is expected to cost $19 million over five years, starting in 2024-25, and $5 million per year ongoing)
- The relaxed eligibility will apply to new student residences that begin construction on or after September 14, 2023, and before 2031, and that complete construction before 2036.
- This measure builds on the government's new reform to allow on- and off campus student housing projects to access the $55 billion Apartment Construction Loan Program.

5. Student Financial Assistance

- Extension for an additional year the increase in full-time Canada Student Grants from $3,000 to $4,200 per year, and interest-free Canada Student Loans from $210 to $300 per week.
 - Increased students grants and loans will be available for the 2024-2025 school year, at an estimated total cost of $1.1 billion in 2024-25.
 - Grants for part-time students, students with disabilities, and students with dependants will also be increased proportionately. Increased grants will support 587,000 students and increased interest-free loans will support 652,000 students, with a combined $7.3 billion for the upcoming academic year
 - Permanently expand the reach of the Canada Student Loan Forgiveness Program to more health care and social services professionals working in rural and remote communities (ex. Dentists and dental hygienists)
 - Modernize the shelter allowances used by the Canada Student Financial Assistance Program when determining financial need, at an estimated cost of $154.6 million over five years, starting in 2024-25, and $32.3 million per year ongoing. This new approach will provide additional student aid to approximately 79,000 students each year.
 - Permanently eliminate the credit screening requirement for mature students applying for Canada Student Grants and Loans for the first time. This measure is estimated to cost $18.9 million over five years, starting in 2024-25, with $4 million per year ongoing.
6. Change in Alternative Minimum Tax (could have positive impact on Development):
- Amendments to the changes announced in Budget 2023: Budget 2024 proposes that the tax treatment of charitable donations be revised to allow individuals to claim 80 per cent (instead of the previously proposed 50 per cent) of the Charitable Donation Tax Credit when calculating AMT

Provincial Government Funding Assisting SubC Imaging with Next-Generation Technology Development

To support the continued growth of Newfoundland and Labrador's ocean technology sector, the Honourable Andrew Parsons, KC, Minister of Industry, Energy and Technology, today announced a $467,500 investment in SubC Imaging to support the company as it develops a new underwater inspection system.

Clarenville-based SubC Imaging builds complete imaging solutions for clients around the world. The company is developing a multi-channel inspection system that includes up to six cameras for an ROV to provide full situational awareness. New software will be developed to merge the various sources of data into one system. The solution will combine cameras, lights, lasers, software and cloud-based infrastructure for end-to-end inspections and surveys.

The offshore energy sector requires regular inspections of subsea equipment, often requiring specialized personnel from multiple disciplines and a collection of various inspections. This new technology will enable SubC to provide an important service in the energy sector to closely monitor and inspect underwater assets in a more cost-effective and efficient manner than is currently being used.

SubC started as a home-based business in 2010 and now has more than 20 employees. The Provincial Government's contribution of $467,500 from the Innovation and Business Development Fund matches SubC's investment for a total project cost of $935,000.

The Innovation and Business Development Fund provides investments to grow Newfoundland and Labrador's oil and gas supply and service capabilities, including opportunities to diversify capacities in other energy sectors. Support for these projects demonstrates the Provincial Government's commitment to strengthen the province's economic foundation by facilitating growth and innovation in our industries and technologies.

Quotes

"SubC has shown time and again it can compete in the global marketplace while creating valuable tech-based jobs in rural Newfoundland and Labrador. Our government is pleased to support ocean technology companies such as SubC by providing them with the tools needed to compete in an increasingly globalized market."

Honourable Andrew Parsons, KC

Minister of Industry, Energy and Technology

"Investing in the development of new inspection and survey systems will enable us to enter the market faster and achieve a greater impact than we could otherwise. We have worked with experts for the past year to develop product market and technology strategies, and we are ready to hit the seafloor running. With ocean tech poised for significant growth and a promising future, this investment makes a lot of sense. There is no more ideal location for advancing ocean technology than Newfoundland and Labrador."

There are two summaries to provide today:

1. Question Period – please see below. No questions on Memorial.
2. Estimates – please see attached rough notes. In a 3 hour period there were a few questions on Memorial, which started 2.5 hours into the session [REDACTED] s. 29(1) (a) Questions covered the Presidential Search Committee, tuition freeze, many on Faculty of Medicine and Nursing, paid internships for nursing, education, and social work students, financial assistance, and one question on AG. The Minister answered most questions on Memorial with a few on financial assistance answered. The rest of the session really focused on the integration of NL Schools into the Department, challenges in the classrooms, and Early Childhood Education (there were a number of questions where the Minister referred the question to senior officials). (I listened for 4 hours and might have missed a few things after 10 pm.)

Thanks,

Hi Rose,

s. 29(1) (a)

Could you send this cleaned up version to MUNSU this afternoon please

Thanks,

Trish

Good afternoon,

Thank you for the opportunity last Monday evening to hear about student issues. I mentioned that I would send you the numbers that we have used when discussing enrolment trends at Memorial and I hope you find the below information useful.

The 19.1% decrease in enrolment that MUNSU references is the difference in enrolment numbers for new undergraduate students on the St. John's campus and online learning between Fall 2021 (2112 new students) and Fall 2022 (1708 new students), a difference of 404 new students.

This 19.1% decrease figure excludes new transfer and exchange students, part-time and continuing undergraduates and readmissions, and campuses other than St. John's Campus.

When we include these factors, total undergraduate enrolment for Memorial was down by 545 students between 2021 and 2022 (a 3.8% decrease).

Memorial's highest enrolment of all students ever was in Fall 2021 at 19,405. Enrolment numbers at approximately 19,000 or above are rare (it happened in 2011, 2012, 2020, 2021 and 2022). We believe the increase in 2020 and 2021 are partially attributable to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and the desire for students to enrol in post-secondary education (PSE) during those years.

The latest figures for new to PSE undergraduate enrolments for St. John's campus and online learning, 2022 versus 2023, is 1708 (2022) versus 1681 (2023), a decrease of 27 students, or 1.6%. The total number of new to PSE undergraduate and transfer students for all campuses actually increased by 8 students between 2022 and 2023, from 2255 to 2263 students. These figures show that the increase in tuition is not having a dramatic impact on enrolment, however normal year-on-year variation in new student enrolment at Memorial and the changes in numbers of potential students available to enrol makes this analysis uncertain.

Statement on Upcoming Coronation of His Majesty King Charles III and Her Majesty The Queen Consort

Newfoundland and Labrador will celebrate the Coronation of His Majesty King Charles III and Her Majesty The Queen Consort on Saturday, May 6.

The following statement was issued today by the Honourable Dr. Andrew Furey, Premier of Newfoundland and Labrador

"On May 6, we will join communities across Canada and around the world to mark a significant moment in the history of The Monarch, the Coronation of His Majesty King Charles III and Her Majesty The Queen Consort. We are marking this occasion to acknowledge and celebrate the close ties between His Majesty and Canada, as well as the role that The Canadian Crown plays in our system of governance and our sense of identity.

His Majesty The King and The Queen Consort are dear friends to Newfoundland and Labrador, having visited our province on multiple occasions. Most recently, we had the pleasure of welcoming Their Majesties here as part of their Royal Tour of Canada in 2022, a visit that provided an opportunity to reflect on The Platinum Jubilee of the late Queen and celebrate our province's friendly hospitality, rich arts, cultural, and Indigenous traditions, as well as our incredible pride of place.

On Coronation Day, we will think of our shared values of peace, unity and freedom. We will also celebrate priorities that Their Majesties and Newfoundland and Labrador hold close, which includes important areas like service, the environment and sustainability, and diversity. Our government shares Their Majesties' vision of a clean, green, sustainable future, which is contributing to long-term growth towards a vibrant and prosperous economy.

Such events like the Royal Tour of Canada and the Coronation inspires a sense of pride and fosters a greater understanding and appreciation of uniquely Canadian institutions, like The Canadian Crown, and the values and symbols that unite us all."

In observance of Coronation Day, events will be held on Government House grounds (Saturday, May 6) and will be open to the public. It will include a parade by a Guard of Honour, followed by a flag raising, tree planting and 21-gun salute.

In keeping with The King's environmental focus, the Provincial Government has created a Seedling Program to mark His Majesty's Coronation. During events on May 6, 2023 at Government House, 1,000 seedlings from The Wooddale Provincial Tree Nursery will be available to the public. Following the Coronation events on May 6, arrangements will be made to distribute further seedlings across Newfoundland and Labrador.

In addition, Government House and Confederation Building will join the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries in illuminating the buildings emerald green on May 6 and May 7.

A more detailed list of events will be released in the coming days. To keep up to date, please visit the provincial Coronation webpage.

Subject: NLIS 4 - Ministerial Statement – Minister Osborne Recognizes Memorial University Faculty of Medicine Awards

NLIS 4
Health and Community Services
 May 2, 2024

The following statement was given today in the House of Assembly by the Honourable Tom Osborne, Minister of Health and Community Services:

Minister Osborne Recognizes Memorial University Faculty of Medicine Awards

Speaker, I rise in this Honourable House today to recognize the Faculty of Medicine at Memorial University for its work matching medical students with family medicine in rural communities.

The faculty is the 2024 recipient of the Society of Rural Physicians of Canada Rural Medical Education Award, which is presented to a Canadian medical school that matches the most graduates to rural family medicine residency programs.

Memorial led the country by matching 71 per cent of its graduates in 2023 to a rural family medicine residency.

Speaker, Dr. Lyn Power, an assistant professor at the faculty who practices on the Burin Peninsula, was also honoured with the Rural Long Service Award.

The award recognizes physicians who serve in rural Canadian communities for 20 or more years. Dr. Power was also recognized as Fellow of Rural and Remote Medicine, which is presented to physicians with expertise in rural medicine in Canada.

We are proud of the faculty's and Dr. Power's work and dedication to practicing medicine in rural regions.

Speaker, through our support of the faculty, investments to increase seats for Newfoundlanders and Labradorians, and investments in recruitment and retention, we are excited about the future of physicians practicing in rural communities.

I ask all members to join me in congratulating the faculty and Dr. Power for these accomplishments.

Hi Neil and VPs,

I was unable to watch Question Period today, however, I have reviewed the record of what is said in the House of Assembly today. Memorial came up in the context of the shortage of teachers in the province and the reliance on an emergency supply teachers [REDACTED] This was the leading issue in the House today. Please see the below excerpt.

s. 29(1) (a)

There was also a reference by the Leader of NDP to the Workliv apartment complex being built next to Memorial "for the purposes of the Canada Games" and linking that to the government's lack of efforts to build low-cost or moderate cost housing.

Thanks,

Trish

T. WAKEHAM: Thank you for the applause.

Speaker, the Newfoundland Teachers' Association does not agree. They're the ones sounding the alarm, they're the ones telling us there's the 500 per cent increase in unqualified and untrained individuals in the classroom. Again, government approves each and every one of these hires.

So I ask: How is it possible that this Liberal government wasn't aware of this?

K. HOWELL: Thank you, Speaker.

Again, I'm not sure why the message that I'm sending is not being received. The number, the 500 per cent increase is the number of available resources that have been instituted in the need for emergency supply. It is not the use of emergency supply.

So when we're talking about the people that are available, we wanted to use the students at Memorial University who already have a passion for teaching. Those who have already decided that this is the career path they wish to pursue, we wanted to give them the opportunity to avail of emergency supply positions in the event that it happens.

We utilize those students, we get them into the classrooms, we further grow their desire to be part of the solution and then they are likely to become full-time teachers when they are certified to practice in this province.

Dr. Greg O'Leary has over 25 years of experience in education in Newfoundland and Labrador, and has most recently served as Deputy Minister of Education. Before joining government, Dr. O'Leary carried out multiple nationally-funded studies specifically focused on education in Newfoundland and Labrador, as well as projects with other Canadian experts comparing curricular frameworks, both within this country and against other jurisdictions worldwide.

Dr. O'Leary also has extensive experience in both the K-12 and university systems. He began working in the public school system in 1997 and has worked in six schools since that time. He also has over a decade's experience working at the university level, having ran and developed national scholarship and funding programs at both the University of Toronto and Memorial University, which brought significant research monies for students across all disciplines into both institutions. At Memorial University, he has also taught and trained over a thousand current teachers in this province at the undergraduate and graduate levels in the Faculty of Education. Throughout his career, he has been both an ambassador for education in the province and an advocate for change, speaking about our educational promise and potential at provincial, national and international conferences and gatherings.

Dr. O'Leary's work around the importance of aligning curriculum, teaching, learning and assessment has been vetted and awarded three prestigious Canadian Tri- council Awards, offering possibilities for student and teacher development, as well as the development and improvement of educational outcomes broadly conceived.

Dr. O'Leary holds B.A. (Hons) and B.Ed. degrees from Memorial University, as well as an MA and a Ph.D. from the University of Toronto. He also completed the province's first national post doctorate in education funded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada.

I keep trying to find a moment to mention this very minor thing to you but am defaulting to email since I doubt we'll talk much this week. I've been asked to sit on a panel at the conference I am attending this week on Presidential Transitions. I'll be joining colleagues from Dal and Carleton to give our perspective from a practitioner's point of view on the role of GR in a presidential transition.

Memorial University Faculty of Medicine Expanding Seats for Newfoundland and Labrador Students

Memorial University's Faculty of Medicine is expanding seats for Newfoundland and Labrador students as the undergraduate medical education program will increase to 85 seats from 80 seats in September 2024.

This comes as a result of significant financial investments from the Provincial Government, with Budget 2024 committing $2 million to increase the number of Faculty of Medicine seats at Memorial University for Newfoundlanders and Labradorians.

This expansion will allow more Newfoundlanders and Labradorians to receive their medical education in the province and stay to work in the here following completion of their training. This is essential to the sustainability of health care in Newfoundland and Labrador.

A second expansion of another five seats is planned for September 2025.

Currently, the 80 seats in the Faculty of Medicine's four-year undergraduate medical education program consists of 69 seats for residents of Newfoundland and Labrador, with the remaining 11 seats allocated for learners from other parts of Canada.

This expansion complements other recruitment and retention initiatives led by the Provincial Government to increase the number of health care professionals in the province, which has resulted in more than 520 nurses and more than 110 physicians who have committed to work in the province since April 2023.

In addition to expansion of seats for nursing students in recent years, in June 2024, the Provincial Government announced tuition relief for Bachelor of Science in Nursing and Practical Nursing students in select campuses who begin their studies in September 2024 in effort to attract more students to the nursing profession.

More information for health care professionals interested in learning about the opportunities and incentives to work in Newfoundland and Labrador is available at WorkInHealthNL.ca.

Quotes

"We know that health care professionals who are educated here are more likely to stay and work in Newfoundland and Labrador following graduation. Expanding seats at the Faculty of Medicine and our previous work to expand additional nursing seats is helping to improve access to health care throughout the province."

Honourable Tom Osborne

Minister of Health and Community Services

"Memorial's Faculty of Medicine strives to meet the evolving health care needs of Newfoundlanders and Labradorians. This includes supporting recruitment and retention of physicians to rural and underserved populations. These additional seats for our Doctor of Medicine program will provide more opportunities for students from Newfoundland and Labrador to study medicine in their home province."

The Honourable Krista Lynn Howell, Minister of Education, issued the enclosed statement regarding the resignation of Glenn Barnes as Chair of the Board of Regents at Memorial University.

"I accept the resignation of Mr. Barnes. We will work expeditiously to have a new chair appointed to the Board of Regents, with the Vice-Chair, Anik Rahman, now serving as Board chair for the interim. I want to thank Mr. Barnes for his work and contribution to Memorial University during his time as Chair of the Board.
